Gaggle Safety Management User Guide   /   Learn the Basics   • • •

How does Gaggle handle User Violations?

Created by Corey Tutewiler
Last updated Jul 18, 2016

A User Violation is a situation where a student uses minor profanity or insulting language, or sends or shares images that are racy or skimpy, but not extremely graphic. Gaggle keeps records of all violations throughout a school year. The first time a student receives a User Violation, they will receive an email warning from one of Gaggle's Safety Representative. The student's Default Administrator will be copied on all subsequent warnings.

Below are samples of the response email messages sent for violations.

1st Language Violation (sent only to student)

Subject: FIRST WARNING: Inappropriate Use

[Student's First Name Last Name],

The attached email was blocked for inappropriate language. Please refrain from using inappropriate language in Gaggle.

The Gaggle Team

Subsequent Language Violations (student's administrator is CC'd)

Subject: SECOND WARNING: Inappropriate Use

[Student's First Name Last Name],

The attached email was blocked for inappropriate language. This is your second blocked message violation. A copy of this message has been sent to your administrator. Please refrain from using inappropriate language.

The Gaggle Team

No labels